Message from the Director

What a great summer we had at Vernon Area Public Library! Thanks to all of you who shared time and space with us over the past few months. From the Summer Reading Kickoff where nearly 1,000 of us enjoyed the library campus, to our Family Fun Fridays in the outdoor Library Learning Garden and our outdoor Concert Series, we enjoyed serving you and providing you with quality programming and services, as well as an opportunity to connect with others in the community.

As the school year and the Autumn season begins, you may have a different daily or weekly rhythm. We hope the Library is a scheduled part of your regular Autumn pace. Library staff created a great slate of programs to fulfill patrons' intellectual curiosity this Fall and are always here as your trusted place for resources and access to information. As you page through this edition of Library Quarterly, we hope you schedule in the opportunity to experience the Library fully.

Library Foundation Update

At the Summer Library Celebration held on June 11, members of the Board of Directors of the Foundation for the Vernon Area Public Library were pleased to greet many attendees and introduce the Foundation's new plans and projects aimed at amplifying the excellence of the Library. Several of the Foundation Directors staffed a table at the event, speaking with Library patrons about opportunities to support the Library by volunteering to help with Foundation fundraising efforts or making monetary gifts. The Board members reminded everyone of a great opportunity to support the Library by mentioning the Foundation when dining on June 20th at Culver's in Lincolnshire and Buffalo Grove. Culver's is donating a generous portion of those sales to the Foundation.

The Foundation aims to raise general donations to support library programs, including sponsorship of speakers and special events. The Foundation also works with the Library Board of Trustees to help realize goals in the Library's strategic plan, such as long-term building improvements and sustainability projects.

If you would like to become involved with the Foundation, we will be pleased to speak with you. Please visit VAPLD.info/foundation or email us at info@FVAPLD.org, and a Foundation Director will reach out.

Celebrate Your Freedom to Read

At the beginning of October, libraries across the country will observe Banned Books Week, a celebration of the freedom to read. The annual observance also highlights the value of access and draws attention to the harms of censorship.

What is the “freedom to read”? In the United States, the Bill of Rights guarantees everyone the freedom to express ideas without governmental interference. Partnered with the right to express ideas is the right to receive them. This, too, is a protected freedom: the “freedom to read.”

It’s a simple but powerful concept. Great thinkers throughout history have underlined freedom of expression as critical to advancing society. The Supreme Court called it “the indispensable condition of nearly every other form of freedom.”

Public libraries play an important role in helping to fulfill its promise. By providing free and equal access to a broad range of materials, libraries allow you to pursue the information, ideas, and cultural experiences of your choosing.

At your library, you are free to research your choice of topics. Here you can find facts to help you make a financial or personal decision, gain better understanding of a subject for school or work, or solve a problem. Whatever your informational needs, you can rely on your public library to help achieve your purpose or satisfy your curiosity.

At your library, you are free to enjoy your choice of creative works. Here you can find books, movies, and music that let you explore places, people, and perspectives beyond your own experience. Or perhaps you’ll recognize an author’s experience as similar to your own, and you’ll feel more understood and connected. Whether you’re looking to get lost in a book or find yourself in one, you can rely on your library to provide a vast variety to choose from.

Of course, a vast variety of choices is only meaningful if it includes things that you want. Public libraries have a responsibility to provide meaningful choices to the public that they serve. That is why the shelves look different at every library: they are locally curated to reflect the interests, languages, and accessibility needs of their local community.

This fall, libraries stand together with booksellers, publishers, journalists, teachers, and readers of all types in shared support of the freedom to seek and to express ideas — your freedom to read.

Pick up a button declaring your support for the freedom to read when you visit the library during the first week of October.

Celebrate Your Freedom to Read Events

Although constitutionally protected, the freedom to read is never fully secure. Unfortunately, there are those who would limit that freedom. These programs in honor of Banned Books Week illuminate the cost of censorship and highlight Illinois' efforts to protect free expression.

Books on the Chopping Block

City Lit Theater presents live dramatic readings of short excerpts taken from the top 10 most frequently challenged books in the US. The list for 2023 includes The Bluest Eye by Toni Morrison and The Perks of Being a Wallflower by Stephen Chbosky.

Wednesday, September 27, 7–8 pm 🏛️

Book Challenges on the Rise: Support Your Freedom to Read

Online panel discussion examining the current state of book challenges, Illinois' legislative response, and the implications of censorship on communities. Featuring Illinois Secretary of State and State Librarian Alexi Giannoulas, Reaching Across Illinois Library System executive director Monica Harris, and Illinois authors Jasmine Warga and Jarrett Dapier. Moderated by syndicated columnist Heidi Stevens. Offered by Vernon Area Public Library to libraries across Illinois.

Monday, October 2, 7 pm 📺

EXPLORE THE UNIVERSE AT YOUR LIBRARY

Spectacular celestial events and space exploration milestones are expected over the coming months. Enhance your experience and understanding with the stellar resources available from your library. Explore books, movies, educational programs, and even astronomy equipment — all available to you with a Vernon Area Public Library card.

Telescopes: Borrow a telescope and explore the night sky. Earlier sunsets and extra hours of dark make autumn and winter great for stargazing. The 4.5" Orion StarBlast is a compact grab-and-go telescope designed for entry-level and intermediate skywatchers. To borrow, search for "Orion telescope" in the catalog.

Physics, astronomy, and aeronautics: A galaxy of educational books and videos for every age and level of understanding are available on library shelves. Make sure to explore the great selection of documentaries on Kanopy streaming video, too.

Stories set in space: The mystery, danger, and mind-blowing awesomeness of outer space makes it a favorite setting for adventurous stories of all genres.

Picture Book Month

Vernon Area Early Literacy Librarian Julia Beavis shares insight about the important role of picture books in your child's reading journey.

Did you know? November is Picture Book Month! Picture Book Month is an international literacy initiative that celebrates picture books. The name "Picture Books" can be a bit confusing, because while some picture books can be wordless, more often than not, they are accompanied by a written story. Pictures are the main focus, but the story is just as important.

There's a reason why books like The Very Hungry Caterpillar, Goodnight Moon, and The Snowy Day are so beloved — many of us were first introduced to reading by exploring picture books with a caregiver. While you may be familiar with the classics, there are many wonderful new picture books to read and share with your family.

You can check out picture books to enjoy at home or read them while at the library, but we also use picture books in library storytimes. When we do, we are not only sharing stories, we are also offering tools to promote the five early literacy practices: talk, sing, read, write, and play.

Talking helps your child learn new vocabulary. Singing helps children develop listening skills. Using markers, crayons, or a paintbrush helps build hand strength and dexterity for future writing. And playing is how children learn communication skills, problem solving, and creativity. Apply these early literacy practices by making reading a part of your everyday routine by sharing books at naptime, bathtime, or bedtime.

It is a great joy to read and share picture books with children, but picture books are for everyone! There is no age limit. We hope this November, whether you're 1 month old or 100 years old, you'll check out a picture book from the library.
